In Case of Errors or Questions About Your Electronic Transfers

Telephone us at the customer-service number shown above or write to us at the address on your statement as soon as you can if you think your statement or receipt is wrong, or if you need more information about a transfer listed on the statement. We must hear from you no later than 60 days after we sent you the FIRST statement on which the problem or error appeared. (1) Tell us your name and account number. (2) Describe the error or the transfer you are unsure about, and explain as clearly as you can why you believe it is an error or why you need more information. (3) Tell us the dollar amount of the suspected error.

How to Balance Your Account

List any deposits or other credits that do not appear on this statement, and subtract any outstanding checks or withdrawals from your current register balance. Compare the adjusted total to the ending balance shown in the Account Summary above. Blue Valley Bank & Trust is a Member FDIC institution. Deposits are insured up to the maximum amount permitted by law. This statement is furnished for your records.

Deposit Account Agreement and Disclosures

This statement is governed by the Deposit Account Agreement you received when you opened your account. By continuing to use the account, you agree to its terms, which may be amended from time to time with notice as required by law.

Interest, if any, is calculated using the daily balance method, which applies a daily periodic rate to the collected balance in the account each day. Interest is compounded and credited as described in your rate schedule.

The Annual Percentage Yield assumes interest remains on deposit for a full year. A withdrawal of interest will reduce earnings. Rates are variable and may change at our discretion after the account is opened unless otherwise disclosed.

Funds Availability

Our general policy is to make funds from your deposits available on the first business day after the day we receive the deposit. Once available, you may withdraw the funds and we will use them to pay checks and other items presented.

For determining availability, every day is a business day except Saturdays, Sundays, and federal holidays. If you make a deposit before the cutoff on a business day, we consider that day to be the day of deposit.

Funds from certain deposits, such as large check deposits, checks deposited to new accounts, or deposits we have reason to believe will not be paid, may be delayed for a longer period, and we will notify you of the delay.

Electronic Fund Transfers

This section applies to electronic fund transfers to and from your account, including direct deposits, automatic payments, point-of-sale purchases, and online transfers, and describes your rights and responsibilities.

Tell us at once if you believe your card or access code has been lost or stolen, or if you believe an electronic transfer has been made without your permission.

Prompt notice limits your liability for unauthorized transfers.

We will disclose information to third parties about your account or the transfers you make only in limited circumstances, such as to complete a transfer, verify the account, comply with legal process, or as you authorize.

In case of errors or questions about your electronic transfers, contact us as soon as you can, and no later than 60 days after we sent the first statement on which the problem appeared, giving your name, account number, the dollar amount, and a description of the suspected error.

We will investigate and tell you the results within the time required by law. If we need more time, we may credit your account for the amount in question so you have use of the funds during the investigation.

Fees and Balances

Fees that may apply to your account are described in the fee schedule provided at account opening and available on request. This account is not subject to a monthly maintenance fee when statements are delivered electronically.

A returned-item or non-sufficient-funds fee may apply if an item is presented against insufficient available funds. This account does not have overdraft protection enabled, so items presented against insufficient funds may be returned unpaid.

The collected balance is the portion of your balance on which interest is earned and against which items are paid; it may differ from the ledger balance while deposited items are being collected.

Statements and Recordkeeping

Review your statement promptly and reconcile it against your own records. Report any discrepancy to us within the time frames stated in your agreement to preserve your rights.

Electronic statements are available through online banking for at least 24 months. You may request a paper copy of any statement; a fee may apply as described in the fee schedule.

Keep your contact information current so you receive statements and important notices. Undeliverable mail may result in your statements being held, which does not extend the time to report errors.

Privacy

Our privacy notice explains how we collect, use, and share your personal information and the choices available to you. We share information only as permitted by law and as described in that notice.

We maintain physical, electronic, and procedural safeguards designed to protect your information. Never share your online banking credentials, and contact us immediately if you suspect unauthorized access.

Consumer Protection

Deposits are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation up to the maximum amount allowed by law, based on the ownership category of the account. Coverage is automatic for eligible deposit accounts.

If you are having difficulty managing your account, contact us to discuss options. We are committed to fair and transparent treatment of our customers in accordance with applicable law.

How to Balance Your Account

Begin with the ending balance shown on this statement. Add any deposits or credits not yet reflected, then subtract any outstanding checks or withdrawals that have not yet posted. The result should equal your checkbook or register balance.

If your account does not balance, verify each transaction against your records, confirm that all automatic payments and deposits posted as expected, and check for any fees or interest that may have been applied during the period.

Common reconciliation differences include transactions that posted after the statement cutoff, pending card authorizations, and automatic payments scheduled near the end of the period.

How do I set up or change direct deposit? Provide your employer with the account and routing numbers shown on your checks or in online banking; changes typically take one to two pay cycles to take effect.

What is the difference between current and available balance? The current balance reflects all posted transactions, while the available balance also subtracts holds and pending items not yet posted.

How long should I keep my statements? Retain statements for at least one year for routine purposes, and longer for records that support tax returns or major purchases.

We may accept, pay, certify, or charge to your account any item even though the item is not dated, is postdated, or was drawn or endorsed by an agent, subject to applicable law.

We may refuse to honor any check or item that is not drawn in a form we can process, that exceeds the available balance, or that we reasonably believe to be unauthorized or fraudulent.

You agree to keep your checks and access devices secure. If your checkbook, card, or credentials are lost or stolen, notify us at once so we can take steps to protect your account.

We may place a hold on funds that are subject to a claim, legal process, dispute, or uncertainty as to ownership, and we may refuse to allow withdrawals of those funds while the matter is resolved.

We may set off funds in your account against a debt you owe us, to the extent permitted by law, without prior notice unless notice is required.

If more than one person is authorized on the account, each may act independently, and any one of them may deposit, withdraw, or transfer funds unless the account terms provide otherwise.

A payable-on-death designation, if any, controls who receives the funds upon the death of the owner, subject to applicable law and our documentation requirements.

We may close your account or discontinue services at any time, with or without cause, by giving you notice as required by law and paying you the collected balance less any amounts you owe us.

Accounts with no activity for an extended period may be classified as dormant and, if unclaimed, may be remitted to the state as unclaimed property in accordance with law.

We may convert your paper checks to electronic items for processing. When you provide a check, you authorize us or the payee to make a one-time electronic transfer from your account.

Funds from electronic direct deposits are available on the day we receive the deposit. Funds from cash, wire transfers, and the first $225 of a day's check deposits are generally available the first business day after the deposit.

If we cash a check for you that is drawn on another institution, we may withhold the availability of a corresponding amount of funds already in your account.

Deposits at an automated teller machine we own are generally available the first business day after the deposit; deposits at other ATMs may be subject to a longer hold.

We may extend the time funds are available for new accounts, for deposits over the amount specified by law, for redeposited checks, and for accounts repeatedly overdrawn.

Electronic Services

Through online and mobile banking you may view balances and transactions, transfer funds between eligible accounts, pay bills, and receive alerts. Some services may be subject to limits or additional terms.

You are responsible for maintaining the confidentiality of your login credentials. Transactions made with your credentials are presumed authorized unless you notify us otherwise.

Mobile check deposit lets you deposit eligible checks by capturing an image. We may impose dollar and frequency limits and may make deposited funds available on a delayed schedule.

You agree to receive statements and disclosures electronically when you enroll in electronic delivery. You may withdraw consent and request paper copies, for which a fee may apply.

Recurring transfers you schedule will continue until you cancel them. To stop a preauthorized transfer, notify us at least three business days before the scheduled date.

Overdrafts and Returned Items

This account is not enrolled in overdraft protection. Items presented against insufficient available funds may be returned unpaid, and a returned-item fee may apply as disclosed in the fee schedule.

The order in which we post transactions can affect whether an item overdraws your account. We generally post credits before debits and group debits by type; posting order is described in your agreement.

If your account becomes overdrawn, you agree to repay the overdrawn amount and any related fees promptly. Repeated overdrafts may result in closure of the account.

Rates and Compounding

The interest rate and annual percentage yield on interest-bearing accounts are variable and may change at any time at our discretion unless a fixed rate is disclosed.

Interest begins to accrue no later than the business day we receive credit for the deposit of noncash items such as checks. Interest is compounded and credited as stated in your rate schedule.

If you close an interest-bearing account before interest is credited, you may not receive the accrued interest, unless otherwise required by law or your agreement.

Fees (continued)

Fees that may apply include, where applicable, returned-item fees, stop-payment fees, wire transfer fees, and fees for copies of statements or checks. See the current fee schedule for amounts.

We will notify you before we change a fee or a material term of your account, as and when required by applicable law, so that you can decide whether to continue using the service.

A stop-payment order on a check is effective for six months and may be renewed. A stop-payment on a preauthorized electronic transfer follows the timing rules in the electronic services section.

Your Responsibilities

Examine each statement promptly and report any unauthorized transaction or error within the time frames stated in your agreement. Failure to report timely may limit your ability to recover a loss.

Keep your contact information current. Statements and notices we send to the address or electronic address on file are considered delivered even if you have moved without notifying us.

You are responsible for maintaining sufficient available funds to cover items you authorize. Pending authorizations may reduce your available balance before the related transaction posts.

Dispute Resolution

Most concerns can be resolved quickly by contacting customer service. If a dispute cannot be resolved informally, it will be handled in accordance with the dispute-resolution provisions of your account agreement.

Nothing in these disclosures limits any right you have under the Electronic Fund Transfer Act, the Expedited Funds Availability Act, or other applicable consumer-protection law.

We collect information about you from applications, transactions, and consumer reporting agencies. We use it to service your account, prevent fraud, and offer products, as described in our privacy notice.

We do not sell your personal information. We share it only as permitted by law, such as to process transactions you request or to comply with legal obligations, and you may limit certain sharing.

We use encryption and monitoring to help protect your information, but no system is completely secure. Contact us immediately if you suspect unauthorized access to your account.

General Provisions

These disclosures, together with the account agreement, fee schedule, and rate schedule, form the entire agreement for your account and supersede prior understandings on the subject.

If any provision is found unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in effect. Our failure to enforce a provision is not a waiver of our right to enforce it later.

We may amend these terms by giving you notice as required by law. Your continued use of the account after the effective date of a change constitutes your acceptance of the change.

This agreement is governed by federal law and, to the extent not preempted, the law of the state in which your account is maintained.

How do I order checks or a replacement card? Request them through online banking or by contacting customer service; standard delivery is typically five to seven business days.

Can I add a joint owner or beneficiary? Yes. Contact us to complete the required documentation; changes take effect once we have processed and verified the request.

Daily Ending-Balance History

The table lists the ledger balance at the close of each day. Balances within the current statement period are derived from the posted transactions in the register above; earlier balances are provided from account history for your reference.
